MAKING INDIAN OFFSHORE SOFTWARE
DEVELOPMENT WORK SINCE 1999

GET TO KNOW ME

I work with companies to streamline offshore software development between the US and India. Since 1999 I have spent about half of my time overseas on various software and IT projects. I'm American, but I have lived and worked in six Indian cities and in the Himalayan country of Bhutan.

CONSULTING FOCUS

My consulting work focuses on streamlining software development projects that span the cultures and geographies of the US and the Indian subcontinent. I typically work for US-based companies that leverage Indian software engineering talent.

Offshore software development is not for beginners. It is hard enough to create high-quality software when your team is in the same room. When you introduce global distances, time zones, and radically different work and family cultures you need to be prepared.

I can help your team prepare. I can also step into an existing project and help steer it back on course. I do this through deep cultural and technical knowledge, and nearly two decades of practice.

I work across industries and with startups as well as large corporations. I'm particularly proud of the work I have done with global humanitarian nonprofits, including the International Rescue Committee and Catholic Relief Services.

I'm available on a contract basis. Please contact me via email to schedule a meeting. I would love to hear from you.
